Description:

Leucodry Capsule is an Ayurvedic proprietary formulation containing a blend of classical herbal ingredients and mineral preparations traditionally used for supporting female reproductive health. The formulation is indicated for the management of leucorrhoea (Shweta Pradara), excessive vaginal discharge, and associated weakness. It helps maintain uterine health, supports normal vaginal physiology, and promotes overall gynecological wellness through its astringent, rejuvenating, and restorative properties.

Indications:

Traditionally used for the management of:

- Leucorrhoea (Shweta Pradara)
- Excessive white vaginal discharge
- General weakness associated with recurrent leucorrhoea
- Uterine weakness
- Female reproductive health support

It helps in reducing abnormal vaginal discharge, improving uterine health, and enhancing overall vitality and well-being.

Dosage & Administration:

Dosage should be taken as directed by the Ayurvedic physician or healthcare professional.

The capsule should be swallowed with water after meals or as advised.

Do not exceed the recommended dosage.

Pharmacological Action:

- Ashok Chaal is traditionally recognized as a uterine tonic that supports female reproductive health and menstrual well-being.
- Majith is valued in Ayurveda for its blood-purifying and anti-inflammatory properties.
- Heerabol and Chikni Supari possess astringent properties that help reduce excessive vaginal discharge.

- Shank Bhasma, Suhaga Bhasma, Kasis Bhasma, and Keharava Pishti are classical Ayurvedic mineral preparations traditionally used to support tissue strength and overall gynecological health.
- Khoon Kharaba is traditionally used to support healthy blood purification and reproductive wellness.

Together, these ingredients help maintain uterine tone, reduce excessive vaginal discharge, and support female reproductive health.
